American Society of Criminology embodies the following objectives:

1. To bring together, in one multidisciplinary society, persons actively engaged in research teaching, and/or practice in the field of criminology.
2. To foster criminological scholarship, research, education, and training within academic institutions and within the divisions of the criminal justice system, including public and private agencies concerned with crime, justice, and corrections.
3. To encourage scholarly, scientific, and practical exchange and cooperation among those engaged in criminology.
4. To serve as a forum for the dissemination of criminological knowledge.

WELCOME TO PHILADELPHIA

James P. Lynch (ASC President, University of Maryland)
Lynn A. Addington (Program Co-Chair, American University)
Robert J. Kane (Program Co-Chair, Drexel University)

It is our pleasure to welcome you to Philadelphia, PA for this year's ASC conference from November 15-18. This year's annual meeting continues the growth trend of past years with well over 1,000 sessions, roundtables and posters and more than 5,600 presenters. The theme this year is Crime, Legitimacy and Reform: Fifty years since the President's Commission, which ASC President Jim Lynch thought would be particularly relevant both given the historic location of the meeting as well as current conditions that have prompted calls for a new Commission to consider crime and justice issues in the U.S.

For this year's meeting, we have scheduled two thoughtful Presidential Plenaries, which engage the conference's theme and seek to answer four main questions: (1) what prompted or warranted the creation of a President's Crime Commission in the 1960s, (2) what have been the greatest consequences of that Commission, (3) do we need another President's Commission today, and (4) if so, what specific issues should it address? The first two questions will be addressed by a panel of distinguished discussants who were intimately involved in the original Commission. This Plenary is entitled The Original President's Commission: Precipitants and Proceeds and is scheduled for Thursday at 11:00 am. The third and fourth questions will be addressed by panelists participating in the Plenary, The Case for a New President's Commission, scheduled on Friday at 11:00 am. This panel will include legislators and advocates directly involved with the legislation to create a National Criminal Justice Commission. Both Presidential Plenaries will be held in the Grand Ballroom Salon E.

In addition to these two Plenaries, five presidential panels explore specific topics related to the President's Crime Commission. These include The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice I: Youth Crime, Police, Domestic Violence, & Race/Ethnicity in the Criminal Justice System on Wednesday at 9:30 am, The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice II: The Courts, Prosecution, Sentencing, and Corrections on Wednesday at 11 am, The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice III: Taking Stock of Crime Statistics Since "The Challenge of Crime in a Free Society" on Thursday at 9:30 am, and The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and the

Administration of Justice IV: Firearms, Drugs, Science and Technology, and Prospects for a New Commission on Friday at 2 pm. These four panels are complemented by an overall discussion of these issues during the panel The Evolution of the Federal Role in Criminal Justice Since the Crime Commission on Friday at 9:30 am.

We hope you will join us for these Presidential Plenaries and Panels as they provide an opportunity to appreciate what the Commission started, as well as the changes it brought to crime control and criminal justice. This reflection also is critical at this juncture as some political leaders and social advocates have called for a new Commission. For all the advances in science, technology, and law observed in the last 50 years, the problems of achieving fairness and effectiveness in the administration of justice persist as do questions about the legitimacy of the system. If it is time for a new Commission, an open question is what would its charge be? No organization is better suited to discuss that question than the American Society of Criminology.

This year's conference continues to highlight the intersection of research and policy and the critically important contributions that criminologists can make. The Policy Committee has assembled a robust set of panels that consider policy formation and policy research. A number of these panels address the likely approach of the new administration in specific policy areas including Latinos (Wednesday at 9:30 am), Mental Health (Thursday at 9:30 am), Sentencing Reform (Thursday at 12:30 pm), Violence Against Women Act (Thursday at 2:00 pm), Civil Rights Enforcement (Thursday at 3:30 pm), Reducing the Prison Population (Friday at 9:30 am), and the Role of Judiciary (Friday at 3:30 pm). Other panels address policy-relevant issues more generally including the capabilities and agenda of the Crime and Justice Research Alliance (CJRA) (Wednesday at 11:00 am), which is a lobbying effort jointly funded by ASC and ACJS as well as the Importance of Replication in Policy Research (Friday at 12:30 pm). To facilitate attendance, these panels will all occur in the Marriott Grand Ballroom Salon A.

We hope that you will attend Jim's Presidential Address, "Not Even Our Own Facts: Criminology in the Era of Big Data" on Friday at 5pm in the Grand Ballroom Salon E. This session is also when Jim will present the ASC President's Justice Award. This year's recipient is Joye Frost, who is the former Director of the Office of Victims of Crime (OVC). During her tenure, Director Frost developed and implemented Vision 21: Transforming Victim Services.

Visions 21 made – and continues to make – a significant and distinguished contribution to the cause of justice as it assessed the state of victim services in the US, presented a plan for improving those services and provided the funding necessary to implement this plan. In short, this plan and its funding initiatives have started to bridge the gap between the victim services movement and criminological researchers that has existed for almost 40 years. Please join Jim in recognizing Joye Frost and celebrating her achievements in the cause of justice.

In keeping with the recent tradition of selecting and supporting one or more local charitable organizations, attendees are encouraged to make a donation to one of several community organizations. Donations can be made using the link found on the ASC 2017 Meeting webpage under “Justice Donations”. The local arrangements committee identified these local organizations for ASC’s support. They include: the Pennsylvania Prison Society, the Youth Sentencing and Reentry Project, the Center for Returning Citizens, Mural Arts Philadelphia’s Restorative Justice Program, and the Clery Center. In addition to these local causes, we continue the tradition of supporting our junior colleagues through the Ruth D. Peterson Fellowship for Racial and Ethnic Diversity and its annual Friday evening dance (9 pm in the Grand Ballroom Salon E). Please join us at this hallmark of the annual meetings, which always is a great way of having fun while doing good.

As most of you know, our annual meetings could not take place without many people giving freely of their time to complete the hundreds of tasks large and small required to make things work. We extend special thanks to the members of the Program Committee who organized thousands of panels and roundtables. The names of the Committee members are listed at the end of the introduction. We thank the Local Arrangements Committee led by Caterina Roman for creating a fascinating itinerary that reveals the intimacies of Philadelphia to their visiting colleagues. The members of this committee included: George Dowdall, Jamie Fader, Jordan Hyatt, Laura Napolitano, Caitlin Taylor, and Wayne Welsh. We also thank the members of the Awards Committee for their work to identify colleagues whose contributions deserve special recognition by ASC. Finally, thanks to Ted Gest, Cynthia Lum, William Sabol and Paul Wormeli for organizing Presidential Panels consistent with the President’s Commission theme.

The ASC is fortunate to have a terrific administrative support system. We are indebted to Chris Eskridge for sharing his encyclopedic knowledge of how the annual meetings are organized and what needs to be done. We greatly appreciate the dedication and hard work of all the ASC Staff members, and especially Susan Case and Abby Moran. Susan and Abby's assistance was critical during this year as we started transitioning the primary scheduling and communication roles from the program chairs to the ASC office.

Finally we thank all the attendees for participating in the 2017 ASC Annual Meeting. We hope it is a successful and engaging conference. We also hope that you are able to consider the rich historical past of criminology, identify the influence of the President's Commission on the current work you and your colleagues are conducting, and consider the future work needed to be accomplished to continue addressing the various challenges of crime in a free society.

ANNUAL REVIEWS

VISIT US IN BOOTH #14 AT
THE 2017 ANNUAL MEETING

INTRODUCING THE ANNUAL REVIEW OF CRIMINOLOGY

The Annual Review of Criminology, publishing in 2018, will provide comprehensive reviews of significant developments in the multidisciplinary field of criminology, defined as the study of both the nature of criminal behavior and societal reactions to crime. International in scope, the journal will examine variation in crime and punishment across time (e.g., why crime increases or decreases) and among individuals, communities, and societies (e.g., why certain individuals, groups, or nations are more likely than others to have high crime or victimization rates). The societal effects of crime and crime control, and why certain individuals or groups are more likely to be arrested, convicted, and sentenced to prison, will also be covered via topics relating to criminal justice agencies (e.g., police, courts, and corrections) and criminal law.

ABOUT ANNUAL REVIEWS

For 85 years, Annual Reviews has been dedicated to synthesizing and integrating knowledge for the progress of science and the benefit of society. Our journals, published in 50 disciplines across the Biomedical, Life, Physical, and Social Sciences, support academics and students at all levels, and increase the discovery and understanding of vital research contributions. Annual Reviews articles are often described as required reading for the research community.

BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC SERVICE

Department of Criminal Justice

Master of Arts - Criminal Justice

The master's degree in Criminal Justice is designed to provide a foundation in research and theory in substantive areas of criminal justice activity and focused scholarship on issues of importance to the field.

Our faculty is very productive in terms of teaching, publishing, and service to the community. This translates into graduate courses that are cutting-edge and relevant, as well as opportunities for both faculty-student research collaborations and student engagement in community discipline-related service. A recent internal review determined that our program has a 100% placement rate for students applying to Ph.D. programs.

The Department of Criminal Justice at Boise State University was named one of the top 10 M.A.-granting universities in terms of total grant dollars obtained by our faculty (Mustaine & Tewksbury, 2009).

Application deadlines:

For Spring admission: October 1st

For Fall admission: April 1st (Priority - February 15th)

COMMUNITIES AND CRIME

An Enduring American Challenge

PAMELA WILCOX, FRANCIS T. CULLEN, AND BEN FELDMEYER

In the Urban Life, Landscape, and Policy series

Social scientists have long argued over the links between crime and place. The authors of Communities and Crime provide an intellectual history that traces how varying images of community have evolved over time and influenced criminological thinking and criminal justice policy.

Exploiting the Wilderness

An Analysis of Wildlife Crime
GREG L. WARCHOL

"I have spent many years in Africa watching elephants, rhinos and other animals that are now being pushed towards extinction by the horrific wild life trade. Greg Warchol writes about this from years of his own personal research, and covering all angles. For anyone wanting to learn more about the problem, and possible solutions, I highly recommend this book."

NEW EDITIONS FROM WAVELAND PRESS!

The Mythology of Crime and Criminal Justice, 5/E

Victor E. Kappeler & Gary W. Potter

This innovative alternative to traditional textbooks highlights and challenges misconceptions about specific crimes or aspects of the criminal justice system. The authors offer a fresh perspective and urge readers to analyze issues from novel vantage points. 978-1-4786-0260-6

Controlling the Dangerous Classes: A History of Criminal Justice in America, 3/E

Randall G. Shelden & Pavel V. Vasiliev

Throughout history, the powerful have created laws, developed agencies to enforce those laws, and established institutions to punish lawbreakers. Maintaining the social order to their advantage included the systematic repression of disadvantaged groups. The new edition provides a solid foundation in the history of strategies to keep the dangerous classes under control. 978-1-4786-3486-3

Delinquency and Juvenile Justice in American Society, 3/E

Randall G. Shelden & Emily Troshynski

The latest edition highlights the social, legal, and political influences on how the public perceives juveniles, and the inequality that affects families, communities, and schools. The authors present theories essential to understanding delinquency, explore the system and its effects on juveniles, and detail solutions that have worked. 978-1-4786-3487-1 Coming soon!

Police in a Multicultural Society: An American Story, 2/E

David E. Barlow & Melissa Hickman Barlow

Social, political, and economic relationships played key roles in the history of policing and policing strategies. The authors address the intersectionality of race/ethnicity, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, and class to provide historical and cultural perspectives on the police/society relationship. 978-1-4786-3611-3 Coming soon!

IUPUI SCHOOL OF PUBLIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL AFFAIRS

Located in the heart of Downtown Indianapolis, SPEA IUPUI's graduate programs will prepare you to develop real-world solutions for today's increasingly complex criminal justice and public safety challenges.

Faculty Highlights

Jeremy G. Carter

Associate Professor, Director of Criminal Justice
Ph.D., Michigan State University

Jeremy received a $791,513 grant from the National Science Foundation to develop a real-time algorithm to predict incidents of social harm in Indianapolis. The aim of this project is to develop a predictive application that will be the focus of a randomized control trial with the Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Department to target policing strategies and government interventions for all crime types, including drug overdoses, vehicle crashes, and suicide attempts.

Bradley Ray

Assistant Professor, Director of Criminal Justice Research Center
Ph.D., N.C. State University

Brad received two federal grants focused on drug-related issues in Indiana. First, a $891,776 grant from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention examining the impact of several policies aimed at opioid overdose, including a program to administer and provide nasal naloxone to combat opioid overdoses. Second, a $653,325 grant from the National Institute of Drug Abuse, to develop a community-driven, recovery-oriented treatment program for returning inmates with substance use disorders.
